DECISION

I. INTRODUCTION

The above-entitled matter came before the undersigned as the result of a Notice of Pre-Hearing Conference and Appointment of Hearing Officer dated April 4, 2024 and issued to the above-captioned taxpayer (“Taxpayer”) by the Division of Taxation (“Division”) in response to a request for hearing. The Taxpayer did not appear for the prehearing conference scheduled for May 10, 2024. By letter dated May 16, 2024, the Taxpayer was notified that a full hearing would be held on June 20, 2024. A hearing was held on June 20, 2024 at which time the Taxpayer did not appear. Since the Taxpayer was adequately noticed of hearing,¹ a hearing was held before the undersigned on June 20, 2024. Pursuant to Section 2.7(G)(3) of the 280-RICR-20-00-2 Administrative Hearing Procedures (“Hearing Regulation”), a default judgment may be entered against the party not appearing at hearing. The Division was represented by counsel and rested on the record.

¹ The notice for the May 10, 2024 prehearing conference was sent by first class and certified mail to the Taxpayer to the address on record with the Division. Division’s Exhibit 13 (said notice and print out of the United States Post Office certified mail tracking sheet showing delivery). Notice of the June 20, 2024 hearing was sent to the Taxpayer by letter dated May 16, 2024, and was sent by first class and certified mail to the Taxpayer’s address on record with the Division. Division’s Exhibit 14 (May 16, 2024 letter and print out of the United States Post Office certified mail tracking sheet showing certified mail was delivered).

II. JURISDICTION

The Division has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-1 et seq., R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-1-1 et seq., and the Hearing Regulation.

III. ISSUE

Whether the Taxpayer owes the Division's assessment for tax year 2019.

IV. MATERIAL FACTS AND TESTIMONY

Principal Tax Auditor, testified on behalf of the Division. He testified the Taxpayer filed his 2019 income tax return in 2020. He testified the Taxpayer overpaid what he owed in income tax, so the Division refunded the Taxpayer his overpayment which included his Rhode Island earned income tax credit. He testified Rhode Island's earned income tax credit is based on the federal earned income tax credit as it is a percentage of the federal earned income tax credit. He testified that after the Division issued a refund to the Taxpayer, the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") adjusted the Taxpayer's federal income to disallow the federal earned income tax credit. He testified the Division reviewed the Taxpayer's return, and as that federal credit was no longer allowed, the Taxpayer was no longer allowed to claim that same credit in Rhode Island. He testified that by statute, the Taxpayer was required to file an amended return. He testified that since the Taxpayer did not file an amended 2019 return, the Division issued a notice of assessment to the Taxpayer for amount of the earned income credit that had been refunded as well as interest and a penalty. He testified that Division's Exhibit 15 shows the credit amount, penalty, and interest owed by the Taxpayer as of the date of hearing. Division's Exhibits One (1) (Taxpayer's 2019 Rhode Island personal income tax return); Two (2) (Taxpayer's 2019 federal personal income tax return); Three (3) (Taxpayer's 2019 federal tax account transcript showing IRS adjustment for Taxpayer's 2019 income disallowing the Taxpayer's federal earned income tax credit); Four (4)

(notice of assessment dated October 27, 2022); Five (5) (Taxpayer's request for hearing); Six (6) through 11 (various correspondence between Division and Taxpayer); and 15 (statement of account of what Taxpayer owes as of June 18, 2024).

V. DISCUSSION

A. Legislative Intent

The Rhode Island Supreme Court has consistently held that it effectuates legislative intent by examining a statute in its entirety and giving words their plain and ordinary meaning. In re Falstaff Brewing Corp., 637 A.2d 1047 (R.I. 1994). If a statute is clear and unambiguous, “the Court must interpret the statute literally and must give the words of the statute their plain and ordinary meanings.” Oliveira v. Lombardi, 794 A.2d 453 (R.I. 2002) (citation omitted). The Supreme Court has also established that it will not interpret legislative enactments in a manner that renders them nugatory or that would produce an unreasonable result. See Defenders of Animals v. DEM, 553 A.2d 541 (R.I. 1989) (citation omitted). In cases where a statute may contain ambiguous language, the Rhode Island Supreme Court has consistently held that the legislative intent must be considered. Providence Journal Co. v. Rodgers, 711 A.2d 1131 (R.I. 1998).

B. Relevant Statutes

R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-59 provides in part follows:

(a) Subject to regulations of the tax administrator, if the amount of a taxpayer's federal taxable income reported on his or her federal income tax return for any taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 1971, is changed or corrected by the United States Internal Revenue Service or other competent authority, or as the result of a renegotiation of a contract or subcontract with the United States, the taxpayer shall report the change or correction in federal taxable income within ninety (90) days after the final determination of the change, correction, or renegotiation, or as otherwise required by the tax administrator, and shall concede the accuracy of the determination or state wherein it is erroneous. Any taxpayer filing an amended federal income tax return shall also file within ninety (90) days thereafter an amended Rhode Island personal income tax return and shall give any information that the tax administrator may require.

R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-2.6(a) provides that Rhode Island taxable income means federal taxable income. Thus, the State's income tax is based on a taxpayer's federal adjusted gross income. R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-2.6(c)(2)(N) provides that a taxpayer who is entitled to a federal earned income credit shall be allowed a Rhode Island earned income credit equal to 15% of the federal earned income credit.

C. Whether the Taxpayer Owes the Assessment for Tax Year 2019

It was undisputed that the IRS disallowed the Taxpayer's 2019 federal earned income credit. As a result, the Taxpayer was no longer entitled to the State's earned income tax credit as the State's earned income tax credit is based on a taxpayer receiving the federal earned income tax credit. R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-2.6(c)(2)(N). The Taxpayer was required by R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-59 to amend his State 2020 return as his 2019 income had changed (earned income credit disallowed). It was undisputed that the Taxpayer did not file an amended return with the Division reflecting his change in federal income. Pursuant to R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-83(a),² the Division properly issued the Taxpayer a notice of assessment for the return of the earned income tax credit for 2019 based on his federally adjusted income. Pursuant to R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-81 and R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-84,³ the Division imposed interest for the late payment of the amount owed.

² R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-83 provides in part as follows:

(a) General. Except as otherwise provided in this section the amount of the Rhode Island personal income tax shall be assessed within three (3) years after the return was filed, whether or not the return was filed on or after the prescribed date. For this purpose a tax return filed before the due date shall be considered as filed on the due date; and a return of withholding tax for any period ending with or within a calendar year filed before April 15 of the succeeding calendar year shall be considered filed on April 15 of the succeeding calendar year.

³ R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-84 provides in part as follows:

Interest on underpayment. – (a) General.

(1) If any amount of Rhode Island personal income tax, including any amount of the tax withheld by an employer, is not paid on or before the due date, interest on the amount at the annual rate provided by § 44-1-7 shall be paid for the period from the due date to the date paid, whether or not any extension of time for payment was granted. The interest shall not be paid if its amount is less than two dollars ($2.00).

R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-81 provides in part as follows:

Pursuant to R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-85,⁴ the Division imposed a late payment penalty for the late payment of the amount owed.

VI. FINDINGS OF FACT

1. On or about April 4, 2024, the Division issued a Notice of Pre-Hearing Conference and Appointment of Hearing Officer to the Taxpayer.

2. By letter dated May 16, 2024, the Taxpayer was notified that a full hearing would be held on June 20, 2024.

3. A hearing in this matter was held on June 20, 2024. The Taxpayer did not appear. As the Taxpayer was adequately notified of the hearing, a hearing was held with the Division resting on the record. The Taxpayer is in default for failing to appear at the hearing.

4. The Taxpayer did not file an amended Rhode Island personal income tax return for tax year 2019 after the IRS disallowed his federal earned income tax credit.

Notice of deficiency.

(a) General. If upon examination of a taxpayer's return the tax administrator determines that there is a deficiency, the administrator may mail a notice of deficiency to the taxpayer at his or her last known address in or out of this state. ***

(b) Notice of deficiency as assessment and demand for tax. After thirty (30) days from the mailing of a notice of deficiency, the notice shall be an assessment and a notice and demand for tax to be paid at the place and time specified in the notice, together with interest, additions to tax, and civil penalties stated in the notice. ***

⁴ R.I. Gen. Law § 44-30-85 provides in part as follows:

Additions to tax and civil penalties. – (a) Failure to file tax returns or to pay tax. In the case of failure:

(2) To pay the amount shown as tax on the personal income tax return or the employer's withheld tax return on or before the prescribed date for payment of the tax (determined with regard to any extension of time for payment) unless it is shown that the failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall be added to the amount shown as tax on the return five-tenths percent (0.5%) of the amount of the tax if the failure is for not more than one month, with an additional five-tenths percent (0.5%) for each additional month or fraction thereof during which the failure continues, not exceeding twenty-five percent (25%) in the aggregate; or

(3) To pay any amount in respect of any tax required to be shown on a return which is not so shown, including an assessment made as a result of mathematical error, within ten (10) days of the date of the notice and demand therefor, unless it is shown that the failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall be added to the amount of tax stated in the notice and demand five-tenths percent (0.5%) of the amount of the tax if the failure is for not more than one month, with an additional five-tenths percent (0.5%) for each additional month or fraction thereof during which the failure continues, not exceeding twenty-five percent (25%) in the aggregate.

VII. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the testimony and facts presented:

1. The Division has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-1 et seq. and R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-1-1 et seq.
2. Pursuant to R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-59, the Taxpayer was required to file an amended return after the IRS disallowed the federal earned income tax credit.
3. The Taxpayer owes the amount of the earned income tax credit that had been refunded as well as interest and a penalty.

VIII. RECOMMENDATION

Based on the above analysis, the Hearing Officer recommends as follows:

Pursuant to R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-59, the Taxpayer failed to file an amended Rhode Island personal income tax return for tax year 2019 accounting for the disallowance of his 2019 federal earned income tax. Therefore, pursuant to R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-1 et seq., R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-59, R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-81, R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-83, R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-84, and R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-30-85, the Division properly assessed the Taxpayer for amount of the earned income tax that had been refunded and interest and late penalty owed as reflected in Division's Exhibit 15.
