- “Other payments” on RI-1040, line 14f and RI-1040NR, line 17e, generally will be used for extension payments only - do not include RI-TDI.

Personal and Corporate Income Tax

Whole Home Short-term Rental Tax FAQs

Q: What taxes applied to short-term rentals prior to January 1, 2026, and how have these changed?

A: Prior to January 1, 2026, short-term rentals of residential dwellings rented in their entirety were subject to Rhode Island's local hotel tax of 1% and Rhode Island's 7% sales tax.

On and after January 1, 2026, the 1% local hotel tax has increased to 2%, and a 5% whole home short-term rental tax went into effect for these properties along with the 7% sales tax.

Whole Home Short-term Rental Tax FAQs

- Q. Regarding sales, hotel tax, and the “whole home” tax on residential dwellings rented in their entirety, what charges are the taxes applied to? Are they applied to services like cleaning? Should I apply them to the security deposit? Anything else?
- A. These taxes on short-term rentals apply to the gross receipts of the transaction. This includes any commissions or fees, such as cleaning fees and booking fees. However, if a damage deposit is required, separately stated, and refundable, the taxes do not apply to the refunded portion of the damage deposit. The portion of the damage deposit that is not refunded is taxable.

Whole Home Short-term Rental Tax FAQs

- Q. Are hotels and other short-term room rentals now subject to an additional 5% tax?
- A. There has been no change to the 5% state hotel tax that short-term room rentals are subject to. The new statute subjects whole home rentals to the same rates (although different taxes) as hotels.

No short-term rental is subject to both the 5% state hotel tax and 5% tax on the short-term rental of entire residential dwellings for the same booking.
